

Questions to ask Yael

What kind of questions would you ask a potential employee to ensure that they are the right fit for a position?

What sort of documentation would you like to see initially to ensure a candidate is prime?

Are there any tests that exist which are used to determine a candidates potential, personality etc?

Are there any qualities a candidate may possess which sets them apart from the rest?

Do you, when considering candidates, always follow up on recommendations and prior work experience?

How do you handle candidates which have just graduated from University who lack prior experience?

If you could eliminate anything from the CV process, what would it be?

If you could eliminate any information people like to unnecessarily put on their CV's, what would it be?

If a CV only had information under 3 headings (personal details, qualifications etc), what would they be?

Are there any books which give an insight into the hiring process?